

US Airways Q&As

Currently US Airways is only implementing this new seat assignment policy for what they are calling "Choice Seats". Choice Seats only occupy approximately eight percent of the coach seats on each plane. From our understanding, ADTRAV will not be able to book these seats for travelers. Below is a little bit more information for you from US Airways website.

What are Choice Seats?

Starting May 7, 2008, Choice Seat assignments on the aisle or window in the first several rows of the Coach cabin will be available for as little as $5 per flight. Passengers may select a Choice Seat during Web Check-in (from 24 hours and up to 90 minutes before departure.) Choice Seats will be available to our Dividend Miles Preferred members any time after booking at no charge.

Do all passengers have to pay a fee for a seat assignment?

No. Choice Seats represent approximately eight percent of US Airways-operated coach seat assignments. The remaining 92 percent are assigned free of charge any time after purchasing a reservation.

What if there are no other seats available at time of check-in?

Choice Seats will be assigned free of charge at the airport if no other seat assignments are available.
